PROJECTS

Project 1: Student Productivity Tracker

Technology Used: C

Objective:

Developed a console-based application using C to help students record daily study hours and monitor their weekly learning progress. The application uses loops, arrays, and file handling to store and retrieve study data efficiently.

Key Features:

- Menu-driven interface
- Daily study hour tracking
- Weekly progress report generation
- File handling for data storage
- Add, update, and view study records
- Simple and user-friendly navigation

Project 2: Creator Dashboard Lite

Technology Used: C++

Objective:

Developed a console-based application using C++ to help digital creators organize and manage their content efficiently. The application uses Object-Oriented Programming (OOP) concepts and file handling to store, update, and retrieve content information.

Key Features:

- Add, edit, delete, and view content records
- Implemented using C++ classes and objects (OOP)
- File handling for permanent data storage
- Managed content details such as title, platform, views, and status
- Search and update existing content records
